SHORT BIO

An interest in stills photography and painting led me to pursue work in the film industry in 1997, first as a clapper loader then as a focus puller. During this time I worked on over twenty feature films including The Matrix, Garage Days, The Worlds Fastest Indian, over 150 TV commercials, numerous short films, documentaries and music videos.

From 2006 I began work as a Camera Operator and DOP on various short films, TVC's and music videos. In 2010 I graduated with a Diploma in Cinematography from the Australian Film Television and Radio School and have since been shooting and operating on a variety of long form TV dramas, feature films, documentary's and commercials.

Most recently I completed work on an ABC TV documentary series titled 'The House' about The Australian Parliament House and what goes on behind the closed doors. Also recently completed 'The Easybeats', a two-part telemovie about the famous Australian Rock band of the mid sixties.
